

► KEVIN CROSS: Green, brown and good are the stabilized-cottonwood handle and ancient-ivory bolsters of a CPM 154 drop-point hunter.

(SharpByCoop.com photo)

▲ JOHN PARKS: Amboyna burl enables the 5160 blade with integral bolster. (SharpByCoop.com photo)

◀ KEVIN CASEY: Tasmanian eucalyptus burl meets feather damascus and a knife shape takes root. (Buddy Thomason photo)

◀ GARY HOUSE: The curly maple haft makes the damascus pipe tomahawk well worth the heft. The mouthpiece combines blackwood and mammoth ivory. (PointSeven photo)

► ANDERS HOGSTROM: Copper and Amboyna burl blend beautifully on a “Kwaiken” with a 1050 blade and distinct hamon (temper line). (SharpByCoop.com photo)

